Activities for the Library Session

Library Catalog : Find materials here

Everything in the SESA Library is listed in the catalog, and there are pictures in almost all of the records so you can see what items look like. You can also see if there is a copy of an item in the library or not. If all copies are checked out, I can reserve it for you.

The first thing you will see on the library page (<https://sesa.org/library/>) is a search box. You can enter terms into the top box and click the search button. You'll be taken to the LibraryWorld catalog, and you'll see a list of results.

To go straight to the library catalog, use this link: <http://opac.libraryworld.com/opac/home.php>
It should log you in automatically, but if it doesn't, the username is sesalibrary, and the password is sesa

You can narrow your search by adding additional words, such as the author's name.

You can search by many fields, including author, title, call number, subject, and more. Click on the drop-down box. A keyword search will always get you the largest number of results.

To request items, you can just copy and paste the information about the item into an email to me (afreitag@sesa.org). I will mail them out to you.

Explore ebooks

Here is the main page for the SESA Library ebook collection:
<https://sesa.org/library/ebook-collection/>

You can look at the list of SESA ebooks here: <https://sesa.org/library/ebook-collection/list-of-ebooks-in-the-sesa-library/>

You will need to log into the collection here:
<https://search.ebscohost.com/login.aspx?authtype=uid>

User name: sesapatron

Password: $eSaEbooks4U

You can read online here or you can download a book to your device.

Go farther! Use SLED for all kinds of cool stuff!

The State of Alaska has made the databases collected under SLED available to all Alaskans for free. There are resources for students, teachers, parents, and for anyone who needs information.

Here's the link: <https://lam.alaska.gov/sled/>

You will need to get the login. You can call me, or you can call 1-800-440-2912. If your phone doesn't have a 907 area code, you'll need to fill out a form on the main page.

Get logged in, and explore! Follow your interests, or help you student or child find help for homework assignments.
